

If the city doesn't meet its affordable housing production targets, alluvable construction of offices would go down by a proportionate amount. It doesn't help fund the construction of storefronts that affordable housing instead will likely create the construction of non-tech firms, which already struggle to find office space, will likely be forced out in greater numbers in a Prop E world.

✗ No on Prop E: Limits on Office Development

If the owner or tenant of a ground floor commercial space keeps it vacant for more than 6 months of a year, they would pay a tax. Doesn't address what we believe are the main causes of storefront vacancies: zoning restrictions and the slow permitting process for new businesses. But it would help.

✓ Yes on Prop D: Commercial Vacancy Tax

Will help make our city safer and protect existing housing. Authorizes bond to fund systems & facilities that help respond to earthquakes, like 911 emergency response, police, and fire fighters. Doesn't bind to fund systems & facilities that help respond to natural disasters, like 911 emergency response, police, and fire fighters.

✓ Yes on Prop B: Earthquake Bond

PROPOSITIONS

DCCC

DCCC members speak for the local Democratic Party and decide who gets the Democratic Party's endorsement. The DCCC candidates that win this election will make endorsements for November 2020. When Democrats look down their ballot at local races, the offices that have the biggest effect on housing, transit, and neighborhood issues, most voters will vote for whomever the Democratic Party endorsed.

DISTRICT 17

Kristen Asato-Webb
Nima Rahimi
Mike Chen
Austin Hunter
Tyra Fennell
Victor Olivieri
Mick Del Rosario
Bivett Brackett
Steven Buss
Nancy Tung

DISTRICT 19

Kat Anderson
Nadia Rahman
Cyn Wang
Suzy Loftus
Janice Li
Jane Natoli
Ahsha Safai
Seeyew Mo
Mary Jung
Mawuli Tugbenyoh

Helped give us "triplexes everywhere" through his recent AB 68 that legalizes two accessory dwelling units on every parcel in California.

Phil Ting for State Assembly District 19

Authored and passed AB 1482, protecting renters with a rent cap and just cause eviction protections.

David Chiu for State Assembly District 17

Authored and passed legislation like SB 35, which helps homes get built faster, and is behind SB 50, which would legalize millions of new homes near transit and jobs.

Scott Wiener for State Senate District 11

Ting have been some of California's boldest voices on housing in decades. Senator Wiener, Assemblymember Chiu, and Assemblymember

STATE OFFICES

